WR in court for personal foul

Woman says Patriots player grabbed her crotch at Copley Square club ● Julian Edelman pleads not guilty to charges of indecent assault and battery ● Club manager to cops: Witness tried to 'beat up' wide receiver

▶ Patriots wide receiver Julian Edelman was arraigned in Boston Muncipal Court yesterday.

Patriots wide receiver Julian Edelman must stay away from a Copley Square nightclub as well as a man and woman after he allegedly grabbed the woman's genitalia while at a club for Halloween.

Edelman, 25, pleaded not guilty during his arraignment yesterday on a charge of indecent assault and battery. Prosecutors did not seek to hold Edelman on bail and he was released on his own recognizance.

The third-year Patriot was at Storyville about 1:30 a.m. yesterday when a woman there told police that he "reached under her costume and grabbed her vagina," according to a police report.

A witness told police that he saw Edelman bump into the woman and her face "change into an expression of shock." The witness then threatened to "beat up" Edelman, the club's manager told police, and the witness and woman were bounced from the club.

Edelman was arrested shortly after police arrived.

A person who answered the phone at Storyville said the manger was not there and hung up on a reporter.

Edelman and his lawyer, Amy McNamee, said nothing to reporters at the courthouse yesterday.

Edelman did, however, stop on his way to a black SUV and sign a football helmet for a man waiting outside the courthouse.

In a statement, Edelman's agent Don Yee said the charges "will be fought vigorously" within the courts, "instead of a rush to judgment elsewhere."

Coach Bill Belichick said he didn't have a comment during a regular conference call yesterday.

"I think just what the statement says. I don't think we have enough information to comment on that right now," Belichick said.

Playing a cop, meeting the cops

Being arrested on Halloween usually means you're busted in some ridiculous costume. Julian Edelman is no exception.

- The clothing description on his police report booking form listed his outfit as "brown shirt, brown shorts, green jacket, black sneakers."
- Photos posted online of Edelman during an appearance at another bar Halloween night revealed that he dressed as "Reno 911!" character Lt. Jim Dangle.

Zuckerberg to recruit at Harvard

BOSTON. Facebook founder and Harvard University dropout Mark Zuckerberg will return to the Bay State to look for a select few computer geniuses to join him at his company's Silicon Valley headquarters.

According to Harvard, he will guest lecture there Monday and meet with more than 200 students to discuss engineering jobs at Facebook. METRO

Halloween violence on Red Line

BOSTON. One man was stabbed and a second person shot on Halloween, both at Red Line T stations in unrelated incidents.

According to an MBTA spokesman, transit police responded to Ashmont Station on Monday night after a 17-year-old was shot in the back and received non-life-threatening injuries.

A second victim, age unknown, was stabbed at Andrew Station and also had non-life-threatening injuries. METRO

Late rent penalty to stiffen?

BOSTON. Two separate bills heard at the State House yesterday urged lawmakers to tighten the penalties for people who are late on rent payments.

One proposal called for laws to be adjusted so those who fail to pay rent on time would be subject to overdue fees 15 days after the first of the month, rather than the current 30-day rule.

A second bill proposed that time limit be chopped to 10 days. METRO

OSHA cites, fines rail company

15 Number of days MBCR has to respond to the violations, according to the report.

The Massachusetts Bay Commuter Rail, the company that manages the T's Purple Line, was cited for 22 safety violations at its Somerville facility by the U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

According to a report released yesterday, OSHA is fining MBCR for $130,800 after the company allegedly violated "serious workplace and health standards."

The inspections, conducted by OSHA from April to October, found employees at the facility's shop were exposed to potential electric shocks, fires, falls, chemical burns, lacerations, amputations and bloodborne pathogens. They also faced potential injuries from crushing, slipping and tripping.

A spokesperson from MBCR said the company is working with OSHA to fix the violations. SA

Here is your chance to help revamp the T

Riders can apply online for committee seat ◗ Group gives input on how transportation can be improved ◗ MassDOT looking for some fresh faces

NICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO

▶ You can help make the MBTA a true wonderland.

If you had the chance to sit down with T officials and tell them how the public transportation system could be improved, what would you say?

"I would ask for later services," said 28-year-old Jonathan Davey, a regular transit rider. "No one wants to go home at 2 a.m. and pay $30 for a cab ride."

MassDOT Secretary Rich Davey is giving riders a chance to voice those opinions and more as the MBTA searches for new members for its Rider Oversight Committee.

Formed in 2004, the group is tasked with giving input to T leaders about issues on Boston's buses and trains.

For the first time since 2008, the committee needs two fresh faces to fill alternate seats, said Davey.

"We are looking for [people] who use the T and use it often ... and someone who may have constructive ideas on how to improve both short- and long-term [issues]," said Davey.

The group meets monthly and conducts some internal committee work, he said.

"We are talking about the potential for fare increases and service cuts so it's an important moment to engage our riders," said Davey, adding that the committee is looking for applicants who have general managment or finance skills.

The deadline for applications is Dec. 7, and if you're not picked, the T will keep you on file.

Whitney Sanger, 25, said she wouldn't rule out submitting an application.

"I'd like to see Red Line trains come on time every day," she said.

Bank of America backtracks on planned $5 monthly charge Considered big win for consumers, protesters

Bank of America Corp. scrapped plans to charge a $5 per-month debit fee, handing a victory to consumers and protesters angry with big banks.

The second-biggest U.S. bank, whose shares were down more than 3 percent, said yesterday that the move was in response to customer feedback and competition. Bank of America was under pressure to make the change as rivals backtracked from plans to charge customers for using their debit cards.

"It's a sign of consumer power in action," said Norma Garcia, manager of the financial services program for Consumers Union. "This is a sign of the marketplace working."

Last week JPMorgan Chase & Co. and Wells Fargo & Company decided to cancel test programs, while SunTrust Banks Inc. and Regions Financial Corp. said on Monday that they would end monthly charges and reimburse customers. REUTERS

'Amazing victory'

U.S. Sen. Richard Durbin, the author of the swipe fee legislation, told reporters on Capitol Hill that the reversal by major banks was "an amazing victory" for consumers across the country.

Cain tries to limit the damage to campaign

WASHINGTON. Republican presidential candidate Herman Cain faced fresh pressure yesterday to explain allegations of sexual harassment and contain a crisis threatening his 2012 bid.

Cain declared himself the victim of a "smear campaign" a day after giving conflicting accounts of whether a woman who accused him of sexual harassment was paid a settlement to end her complaint.

In speeches and media appearances, Cain first said on Monday he was unaware that a settlement had been paid. By the end of the day he had backtracked.

▶ Cain

But yesterday, Cain acknowledged that a cash payout was made to a woman who filed a harassment claim when she worked at the National Restaurant Association in the 1990s when he headed the organization. REUTERS

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip @monicaatmetro monica.weymouth@metro.us

– Dorothy Robinson will return on Thursday.

Divorcing with the Kardashians, Part 2

Wait — you didn't really think we were done with Kim Kardashian, did you? Far from it, kupcakes. When there's a four-hour reality TV special on your $10 million wedding, you better believe there's weeks worth of gossip when you divorce 72 days later (and no, we will never get tired of the wonderful numbers in this story).

Here's your daily dose, which we recommend taking with food and a strong drink:

▶ Won't somebody think of the diamonds?! This, we're told, is what 20 carats looks like.

On the rocks

In the divorce filing, Kim asked that jewelry acquired during their marriage remain hers, according to E! Online. The actual pieces are unspecified, and we don't put it past this girl to accumulate some serious gems in 72 days. That said, we're pretty sure this has something to do with that $2 million diamond on her finger.

Kris Humphries is 'devastated'

While Kim's statement was clearly written by her publicist while she went shopping, Kris Humphries was a little less guarded: "I love my wife and am devastated to learn she filed for divorce," he said in a statement to E! News on Monday evening. "I'm committed to this marriage and everything this covenant represents. I'm willing to do whatever it takes to make it work."

Are we starting to … feel bad for a member of the Kardashian family? Make this stop. Make this stop right now.

Our favorite explanation

If we start explaining the divorce, are we accidentally implying that the marriage was real? No matter, this one is too good to pass up: Kim was annoyed that Humphries began "chasing fame" and trying to break into Hollywood, reports TMZ. Save it for your "moving on" special, lady.

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

Lohan back in court today

Lindsay's back for another probation hearing today, and she's changed her tune. She'll admit to previously violating her probation, says TMZ, and ask the judge for mercy, as she's now working hard at the morgue. We're betting she lands in jail anyway — if there's one thing we know after this week, it's that there will be no mercy for gossip columnists who want to make it home in time for "Modern Family."

Fine, we'll bite, Jessica

After Kardashiangate broke, Jessica Simpson must have finally realized no one was going to pay her the $500,000 she was hoping to score for her pregnancy announcement. Monday night, she posted a photo of herself on her personal website in a tight mummy costume, holding her pregnant belly with the caption "It's true, I'm going to be a mummy." Congrats, Jess — months ago.

The feed ...

Checking in with some of Hollywood's biggest names to see what they've been up to — in their own words, in 140 characters or fewer.

Today, Kelly Osbourne is well-dressed, Iman is trying to keep up with the Kardashians, Mindy Kaling has big dreams and Donald Glover knows what he likes.

▶ @MissKellyO
the most important thing a girl wears is her confidence!

▶ @The_Real_IMAN
i don't watch much tv! but how many days of marriage we're talking about? i'm always so late with these pop culture news!

India in focus on HBO

Modern-day life in the South Asian nation is highlighted in four documentaries airing throughout November on HBO and HBO2

'Marathon Boy'

Premieres tomorrow at 8 p.m. on HBO

Most people can't imagine running one marathon in their lifetime. Budhia Singh ran 48 marathons by the age of 4. This fascinating story, filmed with unprecedented access over a five-year period, details the rise of a boy who was born into poverty, taken in by a master showman who recognized his natural talent for long-distance running and exploited en route to becoming a national hero.

'The Bengali Detective'

Premieres Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. on HBO2

The plot almost plays out like a Kolkata-set episode of "Bored to Death" — Rajesh Ji, founder of the Always Investigating & Security Concern detective agency, is a Bollywood-obsessed private eye who solves crimes (from the counterfeiting of fake-hair goods to murder) for citizens who have lost trust in local authorities.

NEWS & REVIEWS ON ALL THINGS DVR-WORTHY

'The Sound of Mumbai: A Musical'

Premieres Nov. 23 at 8 p.m. on HBO2

Performing "The Sound of Music" offers the chance to dream of a life off the streets as the Bombay Chamber Orchestra recruits kids from the slums to stage a one-time-only choral concert of the Rogers and Hammerstein score. And 11-year-old solo performer Ashish is dreaming big — he hopes to inspire a patron to sponsor his education, or maybe even win the affections an upper-class girl.

'Pink Saris'

Premieres Nov. 30 at 8 p.m. on HBO2

Amid devastating stories of abuse against women in arranged marriages in Northern India, hope comes in the form of a pink sari. Sampat Pal escaped her own horrors — she was often beaten by the family she was married into as a young girl — to found the Gulabi Gang (aka the Pink Gang), a vigilante group who, yes, don bright pink clothes, but also battle antiquated caste traditions that endanger women.

The ABCs on diabetes

It's been linked to heart disease, stroke, blindness and a slew of other medical problems Lower your risk

BANANASTOCK

An estimated 8 percent of the nation's population has diabetes.

November is Diabetes Awareness Month, and with the American Diabetes Association reporting an estimated 25.8 million diabetics across the nation, including 1.9 million new adult cases last year, it's time to get proactive in preventing this potentially fatal condition.

Diabetes is characterized by surges in blood glucose levels. Unfortunately, Type 1, or juvenile diabetes, is not preventable. It occurs when the body doesn't produce insulin, the hormone that regulates blood sugar levels. The more common Type 2 occurs when insulin response is compromised by unnatural surges in blood sugar that the body can't manage. However, it is largely preventable.

"People can lower their risk of getting Type 2 diabetes through lifestyle changes, such as regular exercise and a good diet," says Lisa M. Davis, Ph.D, the director of research and development for Medifast, a weight loss meal replacement program.

MIRA AND PAUL SORVINO ON LIFE WITH DIABETES AT WWW.METRO.US/WELLBEING

"Losing just 5 percent of your body weight can significantly lower your risk. For people with Type 2 diabetes who are overweight or obese, one of the most effective strategies for reversing the disease is losing weight and getting active."

Choosing the proper foods is crucial. "A well-balanced diet that emphasizes low-glycemic foods [like fruits, vegetables, beans and whole grains] will help. These do not cause sudden upsurges in blood sugar levels," says Davis. "Exercise is also critical. It helps by sensitizing the cells that take up excess sugar from our bloodstream and making them work more efficiently."

Gays should be so privileged

Kim Kardashian and Kris Humphries had a wedding for publicity purposes and made a mockery of the institution of marriage. After 72 days and millions of dollars later a divorce is pending. But gay men and women who are devoted to their partners are not allowed to marry because of the "sanctity of marriage." What is that I hear or rather don't hear? Silence from conservative groups who always voice their opposition to people who are in love who just happen to be the same gender. There are gay couples that have been together for decades and depending on where they live are unable to wed. Love is love and wanting to make a legal union out of it should not be exclusive to heterosexuals.

GISEL R ENGLISH, VIA EMAIL

Stop 'Keeping Up' with them

Big surprise that Kim Kardashian's marriage is already over! Was this even a serious romance in the first place or just another calculated advertising move by the Kardashian empire? Fueled by the revelation that this family "earned" over 65 million dollars last year, let's all vow to not put an additional dime into the coffers of Kim or her siblings. Boycott their fashions, perfumes and TV shows. Stop giving them your hard-earned money!

RICHARD FEINBERG, BOSTON, MA

Where is the real magic?

Your (Metro Magic) gift suggestions are missing some magic! Why not mention books and arts and craft supplies? The principle I followed when my sons were little was something for the mind, body and spirit. In other words: books, sweaters and toys. I agree that sports equipment is good but minds and hearts need to be active too.

EVE SULLIVAN, CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

The 'American Dream' vs. OWS

I'm a college student graduating next year and six months after that I'll have to face my debt. I'm not in the 1%, but I'm doing what I can to climb the ranks to that 1% because that's the American dream. I have everything I need to move up in our system and it leads me to believe that putting my hand out is below me. If you're able bodied and minded, go get a job and strive to become what you want instead of sitting in a tent begging.

Horoscope

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. It might be smart to yield a little on some minor issues in order to avoid locking horns with a family member over a big matter.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Because of your reluctance to be forthright about what is bothering you, many of your companions will find you difficult to understand.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Frivolous activities that don't make any kind of contribution to your material or social well-being shouldn't be given a whole lot of your time.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. If you insist upon dwelling on negatives, you'll elude all possibility of having any success. It's important to strive to be a positive thinker as much and as often as you can.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Keep your snoot out of a friend's business if you see that she or he is unwilling to share something with you. Everyone is entitled to privacy when they feel it's warranted.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. You're in for a big surprise if you think inflexibility will enhance your negotiating skills. All it will do is cause people to turn their backs on you.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. There's nothing to be gained by spreading yourself too thin where your work is concerned. It will gain you a lot of needless frustration when you can't complete all that you want to.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Trying to con a co-worker into doing a job your way will turn into a frustrating experience. If you want things done well, let your colleague call the shots.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Unless you think your way through every step of the day, your gains will be slimmer than a fashion model. If you do things in a haphazard manner, your fragile arrangements will crumble.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. You had better stay focused on your endeavors because if you don't, chances are you will make a serious mistake that could require a total makeover.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. If you intend to go window-shopping at the mall, you'd be smart to leave your credit cards at home. Your resolve to maintain your budget will be weaker than a wet noodle.

Time for the Sox to hit the market

- There's going to be some talent out there for the taking this offseason
- Here's where Boston should look at three key spots: RF, SP and bullpen

After a month of off-field drama, the Red Sox are back in the business of repairing the on-field product that collapsed so spectacularly in September.

Right field, starter and reliever are among the most pressing needs of new GM Ben Cherington. Here's a quick list of potential top targets.

Right field

Potential targets: Grady Sizemore, Michael Cuddyer, Josh Willingham

Sizemore, a Gold Glove and Silver Slugger winner who hasn't played a full season since 2008, could be a low-cost, high-impact option. If healthy, and on a short deal, Sizemore could revert to All-Star form and be a steal — not unlike Adrian Beltre was in 2010.

Cuddyer has always been steady with the Twins, and can play infield. He has 20-homer, 80-RBI capability and made $10.5 million last season.

Willingham is more of a long shot. Though he just missed a 30-100 season for the A's, he's in line for a big raise and has minimal experience in right.

Starting pitcher

Potential targets: C.J. Wilson, Edwin Jackson, Yu Darvish

The left-handed Wilson should command much attention after posting a 2.94 ERA with 206 strikeouts pitching in hitter-friendly Rangers Park in Arlington. Wilson and Jon Lester would give the Red Sox two nasty lefties to take to Yankee Stadium.

Darvish, 25, is the big prize from Japan this offseason. He had a 1.44 ERA and 276 strikeouts for the Hokkaido Nippon Ham Fighters, but will the Red Sox go that route again after a disappointing Dice-K experience?

Jackson has often been disappointing, but could be a low-cost option.

Relief pitcher

Potential target: Mike Gonzalez

Gonzalez flamed out as the closer in Baltimore in 2010. But if used correctly, he could be an effective lefty reliever.

JEFF GOLDBERG
sports@metro.us

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Expect the Red Sox to make a run at Japan's Yu Darvish this offseason ... if their experience with Daisuke Matsuzaka doesn't scare them off.

▶ Cashman

Cashman still with Yanks ...

The Yankees kept their GM in the fold yesterday, inking Brian Cashman to a three-year contract with a reported $9 million.

Cashman's old contract with the team expired Monday.

On a conference call with reporters, he made his top offseason priority clear.

"Pitching, pitching, pitching," he said, after re-signing CC Sabathia. "That will be the main thrust."

METRO

... but RP is gone

Meanwhile, the Yankees declined their 2012 option on former first-round pick Andrew Brackman.

The 6-foot-10 right-hander signed a $4.45 million contract out of college, but never truly recovered after undergoing Tommy John surgery. METRO

The Big East plans to invite six teams into the fold, according to online reports yesterday. Boise State, Navy and Air Force will be welcomed in football only, and SMU, Houston and Central Florida will reportedly get invitations for all sports. Boston College left the league in 2005.

Pats have a lot to get ready for

It's no secret the Giants are good at getting to the quarterback — they lead the NFL with 26 sacks this year, after all.

This weekend, it will be up to the Patriots to slow them down. And offensive coordinator Bill O'Brien knows it won't be easy.

"It's a little bit of everything," O'Brien said. "Perry Fewell does a great job. He's been a coordinator in the league for a while now. He does a really good job of mixing things up, mixing up the looks, making sure that he has some different things." METRO

▶ Jason Pierre-Paul leads the Giants with nine sacks.

Belichick: Giants still up there

This year's Giants have some distinct similarities to the team that ruined the Patriots' perfect season a few years back, coach Bill Belichick said yesterday.

"Tom's [Coughlin] coaching philosophy is the same," he said. "It's been very successful, they have a good balance. ... You have a lot to prepare for. I think those things are similar." METRO

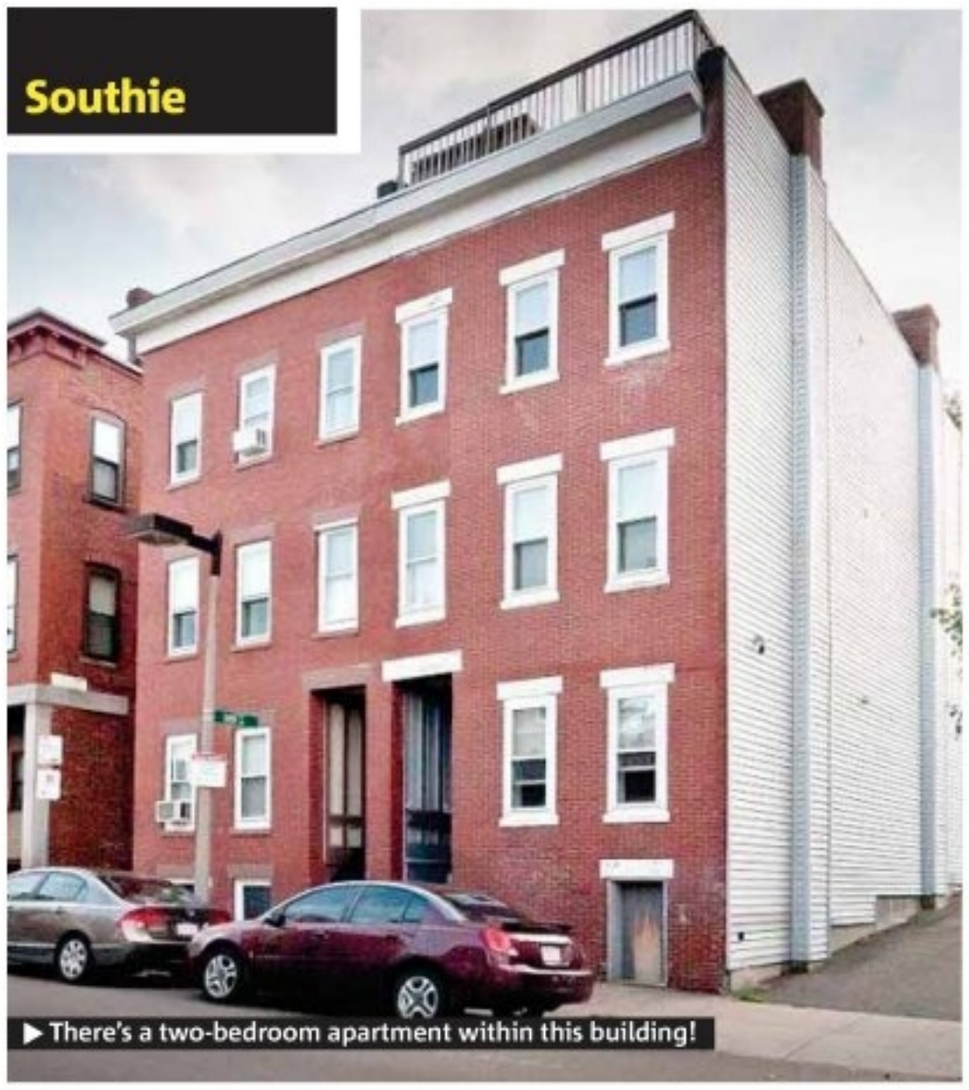
Southie



▶ There's a two-bedroom apartment within this building!

▶ Look! Here's one bedroom!

▶ And another bedroom — with two beds!

Parking ban, what parking ban?

This two-bedroom apartment in South Boston offers a low price, easy city access, and yes, parking!

The outward sprawl that is happening as Manhattan marches south into Brooklyn, swallowing up the once gritty borough like some Japanese sci-fi monster, isn't happening at quite the same pace in Boston. Not yet. Which is why it's still possible to find a bargain in Southie. (Well, there is that little thing called a recession, too.) A bargain like the two-bedroom, bilevel condo on West Third Street, which has just relisted at a lower price, dropping the asking amount to under $300,000. Given the easy city access and nearby amenities such as bars and restaurants, and beautiful Castle Island, it might not yet be the most desirable street, but it's not far from them.

"This is a great location and price for a condo this size," says realtor Wendy Rocca, who just took on the property. "Having the bedrooms on the lower level means you have total privacy. You don't have to worry about people dropping by ... they'll never have to see your bedrooms," she says. "And although, you are steps away from everything that South Boston has to offer. This is a quiet residential street, too."

Right now, as we enter winter, perhaps the biggest bonus is that the apartment, which is split over the first and basement floors in a neat old red-brick row house-style building, has deeded parking with direct entrance from the home. So, when the snow hits, you won't be running outside bagging a street spot with your lawn chair. Parking ban, bring it on.

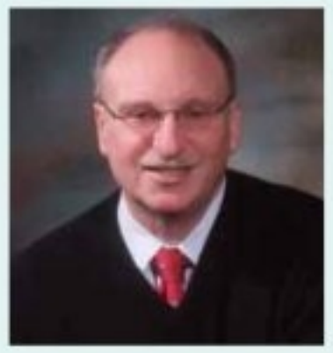
REAL ESTATE ON THE GO!



WOULD YOU LIKE YOUR NAME IN THE NEWS?

By Attorney George Warshaw

Lost in this age of the internet is almost any hope of privacy and confidentiality.

I suppose if I won the lottery I wouldn't mind my name appearing all over the Boston Globe or the Herald; but I wouldn't want my name publicized if it came from the police blotter – or a new home that I bought.

Buy a home, and your neighbors, relatives and fellow employees can read about it in the newspapers. Want them to know how much you paid and the details of your mortgage, you don't have to say a word. They'll know in a New York minute!

Real estate transactions are published in many local town or neighborhood newspapers – and appear all over the web!

People who want to protect their personal information from public disclosure can use a number of techniques. Since newspapers report the names of buyers that appear on deeds, the most common privacy technique is to substitute a "Trust" for the buyer's name on the deed.

Rather than your name appearing on the deed as the new owner, designate a Trust that you own and control instead. If done right, your privacy is protected. Read more about the pluses and minuses of using a trust at GeorgeintheMetro.com.

This is no fixer-upper

With the housing market down, it's harder to sell your home than ever before Whether you're staying put for a few more years or wooing potential buyers, we've got easy tips to make your old place feel like new

For homeowners stuck in a selling stalling pattern, don't just kick back and let the place crumble until you move. Instead, ask these two questions:

Do I really need to move right now, and why didn't it sell? Then, take action, advises Jeff Kaliner, founder and CEO of Philadelphia-based Power Home Remodeling Group, which has branches throughout the Northeast and specializes in siding and windows.

"First, decide whether you want to increase the home's appeal to sell it, or to make it more comfy for you and your family," says Kaliner. Any makeover will add new appeal to a home you have tired of, plus, it'll add eye appeal when you decide to put it back on the market. "You don't have to spend a lot of money," he says. "[There are] many things you can do yourself." Kaliner gives us some ideas.

LINDA CLARKE
letters@metro.us

Replace fixtures and fittings Whether it's light fittings or bathroom fixtures, replacing old tatty ones or matching up finishes is a simple way to streamline a room. "You can change from shiny brass to oil rubbed, or something like that," he suggests. "It makes a huge difference inside."

Wash exterior walls Mold, dirt and discoloration can make paintwork and siding look unappealing. "Maybe you don't need new siding or even new paint. I just power-washed my house and it looks like new,"says Kaliner.

Replace doorknobs This is another easy way to change the look of a room, or the whole house. "This is such a simple thing. You can change cabinet knobs or doorknobs throughout," he says.

Do some landscaping "Clean up! This increases curb appeal," says Kaliner. "It's something you can do yourself. Do some planting, cut shrubs and clear the bicycles off the lawn."

Install new windows Not only does it look better; you cut your home's energy use. "If everyone in your neighborhood has new windows and you don't, your home is at a disadvantage," he says.

Update basic systems "If you're heating system or water pump or any other basic system is older, think about replacing it. Make sure that the basic guts of the home is working properly and up-to-date."

Keep up with repairs

Whether you decide to stay or keep trying to sell, if your home needs some love, get to it. "You don't always get a 100 percent return on what you spend," says Kaliner. "Rather than increase the value, a well-kept home means you haven't allowed value to decrease."

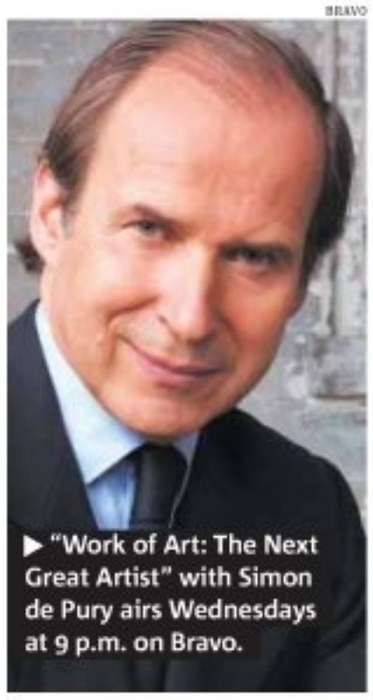
How to buy art for your home

We asked Simon de Pury, art expert and mentor on Bravo's "Work of Art: The Next Great Artist" for his tips

BRAVO



"Work of Art: The Next Great Artist" with Simon de Pury airs Wednesdays at 9 p.m. on Bravo.

Look at listings

"The websites of the main auction houses give you the full programs of all the auctions going on. Then there is a magazine called Artforum in which most galleries advertise, and that gives you a pretty good overview in terms of contemporary art."

Visit in person

"Go and see as many exhibitions as possible," he adds. "Or go and visit all the auction previews just to have an overall view and see what there is. And when there are the art fairs, like the Armory Art Fair in New York, go."

Think long-term

"Buy a work that does not only have initial strong appeal but will be great in the long run. I think the good thing is first to go out and not make any acquisitions — just make mental acquisitions. Work out what it is you personally love, and once you've done that, then it's better to leap in the water and do your first purchases."

Research prices

"Once you have identified what appeals to you personally, then you can do a bit of homework on pricing," he says. "For instance, you can go on certain websites that give you the price obtained by any artwork at public auctions, so you can see what ballpark figures you may have to spend to buy what you love. There is a website called Artnet.com, and there you can type in any artist and see, for instance, the top hundred most expensive works ever sold by that artist, with images and details of when and where they were sold."

DIGITAL VISION

Try haggling

"You can negotiate," de Pury says, "and you can make an offer on a work, saying that that is what you're prepared to pay."

MEREDITH ENGEL
meredith.engel@metro.us

Search on the cheap

"You can go to the flea market [and] make great finds," de Pury says. "It requires time but it's a fun thing to do. I myself enjoy going to the flea market or to eBay. If you want to focus on the great masters and don't want to pay the kind of prices you may have pay for them, you can collect editions, which are [for example] prints, lithographs or etchings. There is a very active market for those."
